

The FCC should remember the air waves are there for the public good and that copy protection can prevent fair use not just theft of signal. Its one thing if CBS won't let me watch them on cable quite another if you give them a second channel and they create some set up so that only honest folk can't tape it or watch TV on their computer.